Here are some common issues many people face with their phone numbers.

Why do we have to use my personal phone number on company business cards?

In online transactions, I want to know who's on the other end, but I'm hesitant to hand out my personal contact details.

It's not straightforward to make international calls to a travel agency that's based overseas.

I've moved on to a new job, but I'm still getting calls from old clients. It's pretty tricky to manage.

It's inconvenient to have social calls with my team leader while on a business trip

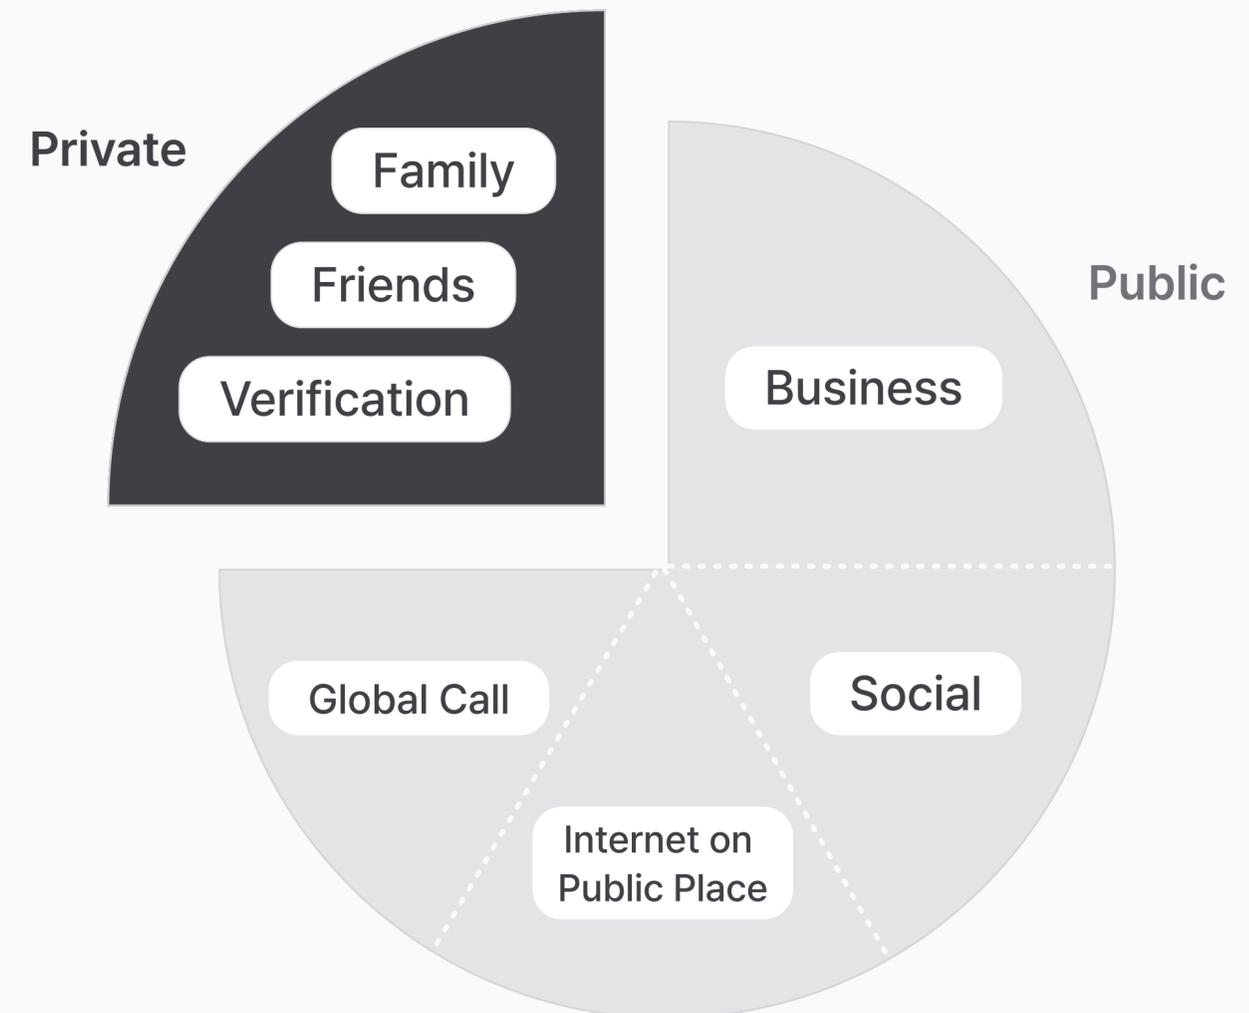

Is your phone number okay?

Solution

Email Address-Based Global Call Service

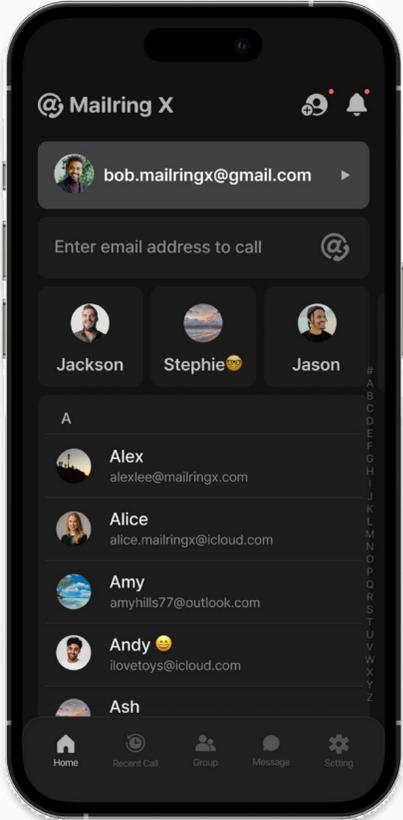

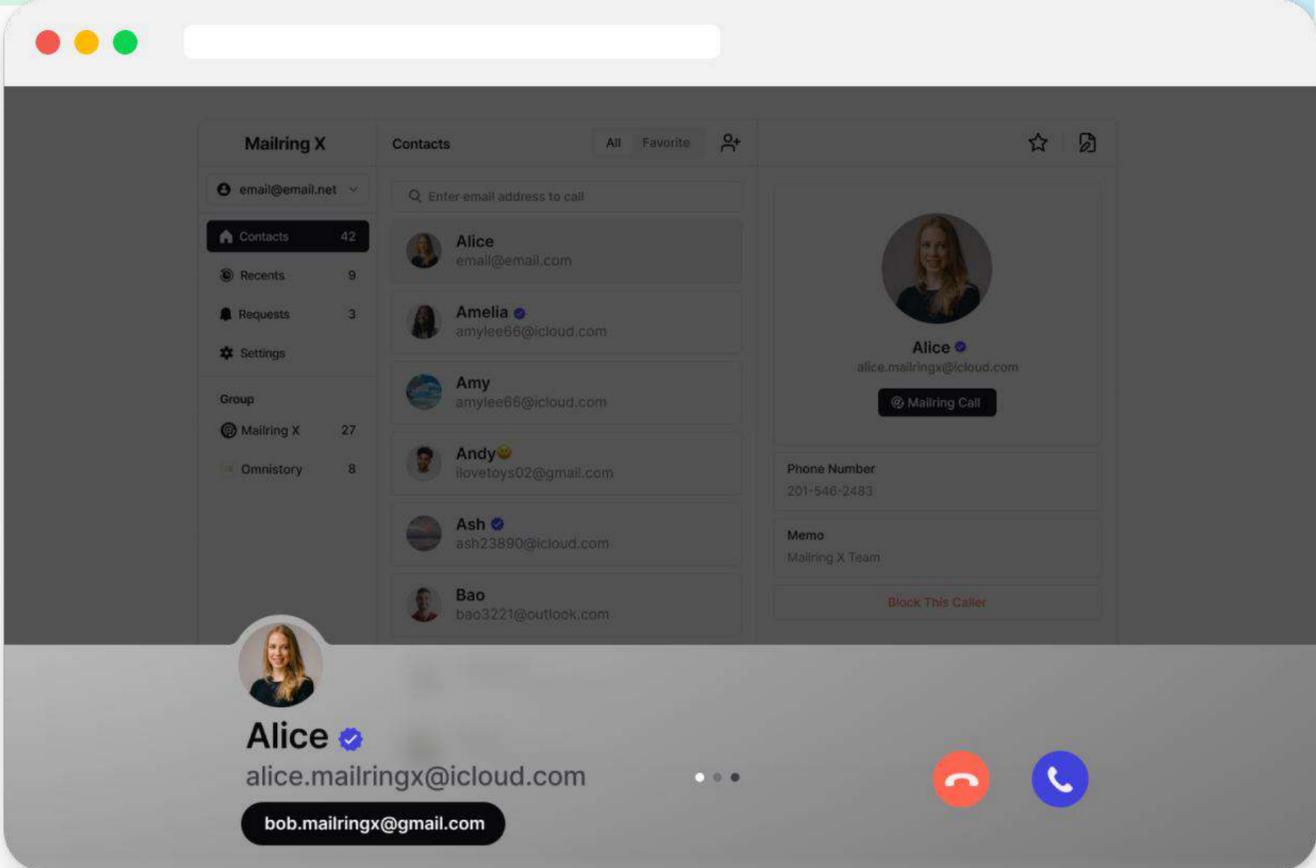

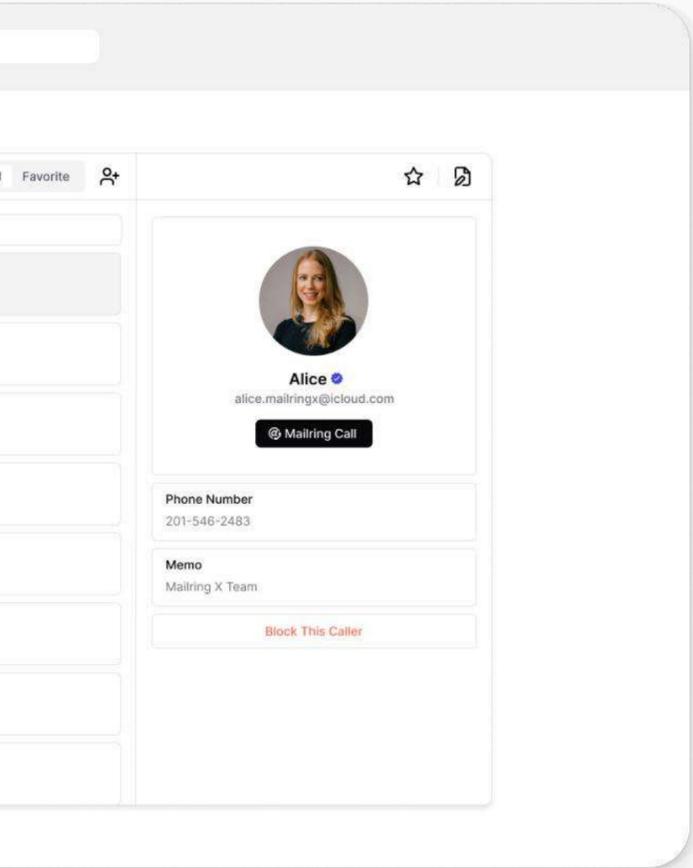

Let's try solving that problem with Mailring X.

Supported Platforms

Web Browser + Mobile Application

We support all web browsers and iOS, Android mobile applications.
(Window/Mac applications are scheduled to be released in the second half of 2024)

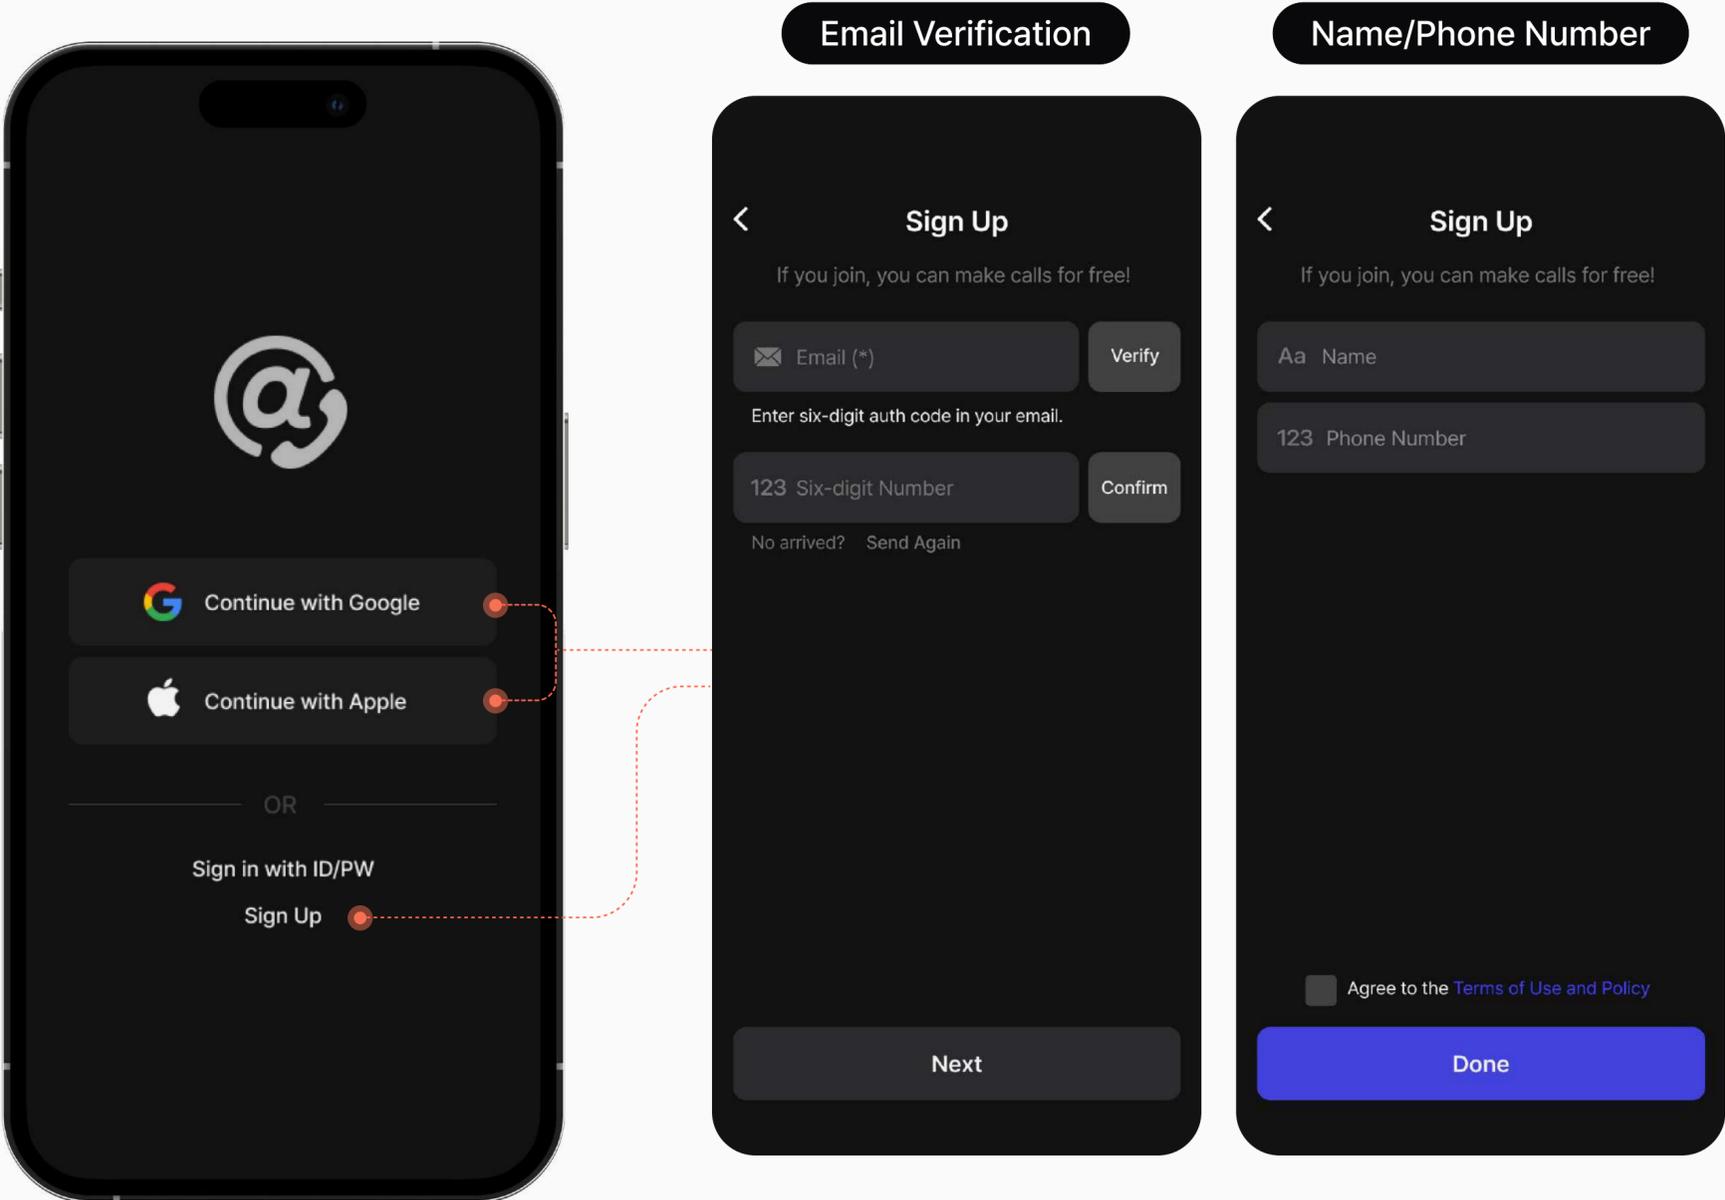

Account

Sign Up + Login Screen for Starting Mailring X

Account

Mailring X Sign Up

Mailring X offers two methods for registration: standard registration and social registration (via Gmail, Apple Email).

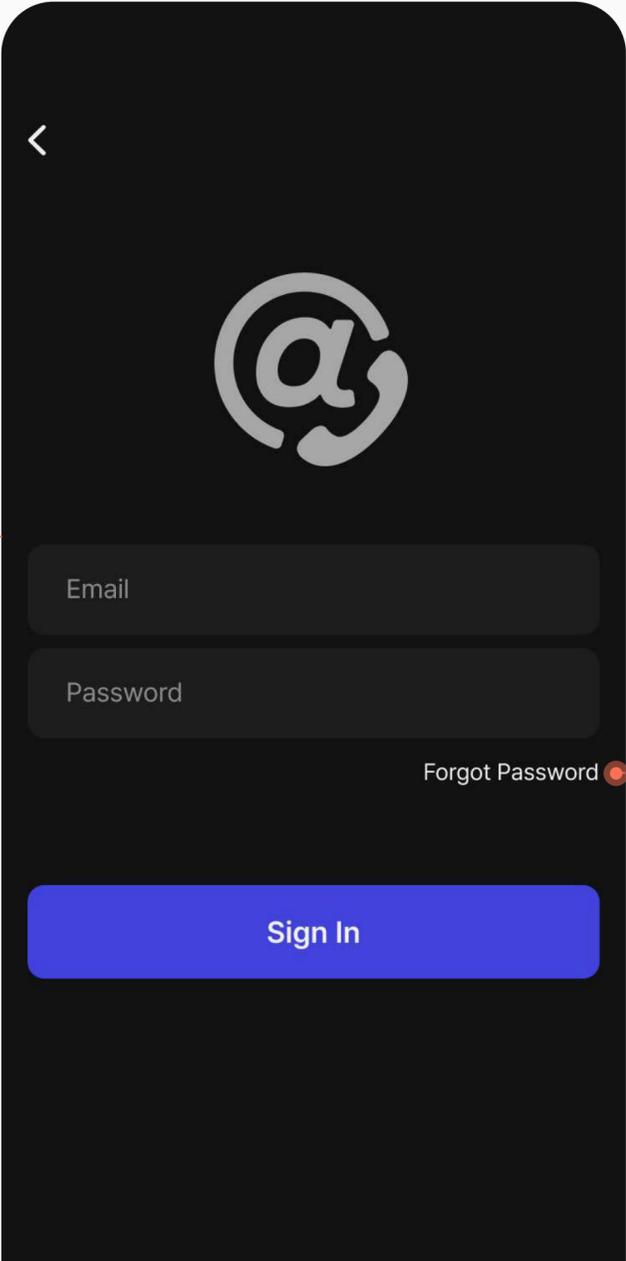

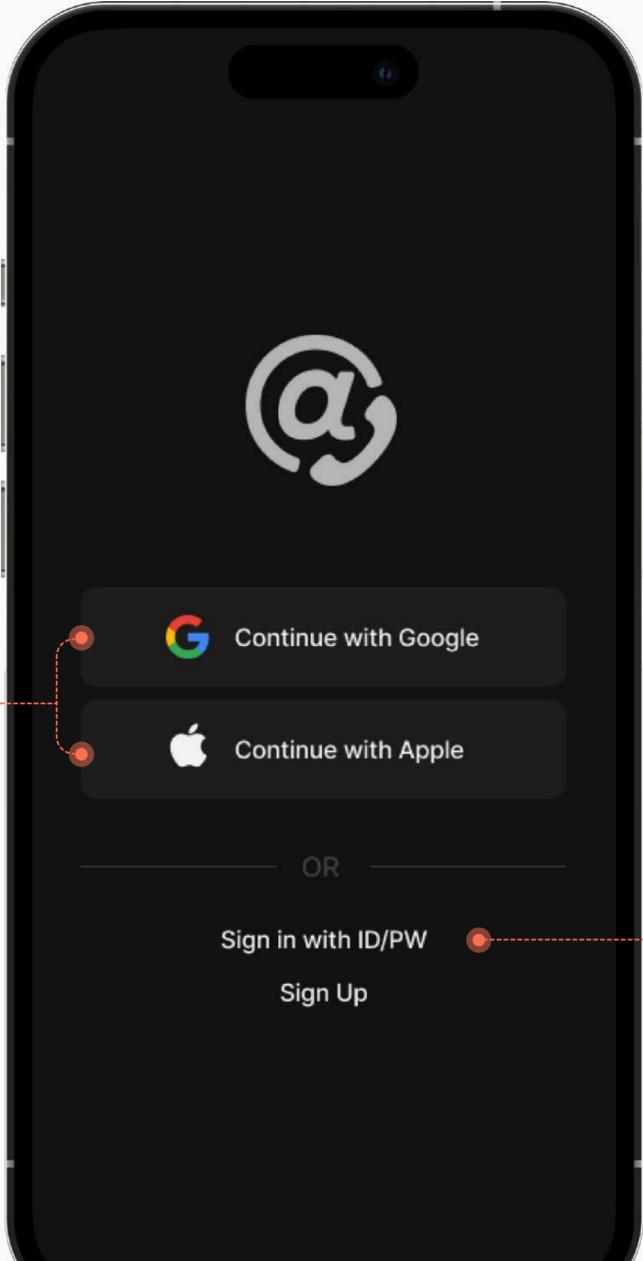

Account

Mailring X Sign In

Users who signed up with a social email have the advantage of quickly logging in from the Intro screen. For standard users, they can enter their email and password through the 'Sign in with ID/PW' button to access the main screen.

Social Sign In
Upon selecting the registered email account, you will be logged in immediately and directed to the main screen.

Password Reset
Forget your password, you can reset it by entering the verification code sent to your registered email account.

Notification Lists
View notifications received from all registered sessions (such as contact requests, group member acceptance requests, group call invitations).

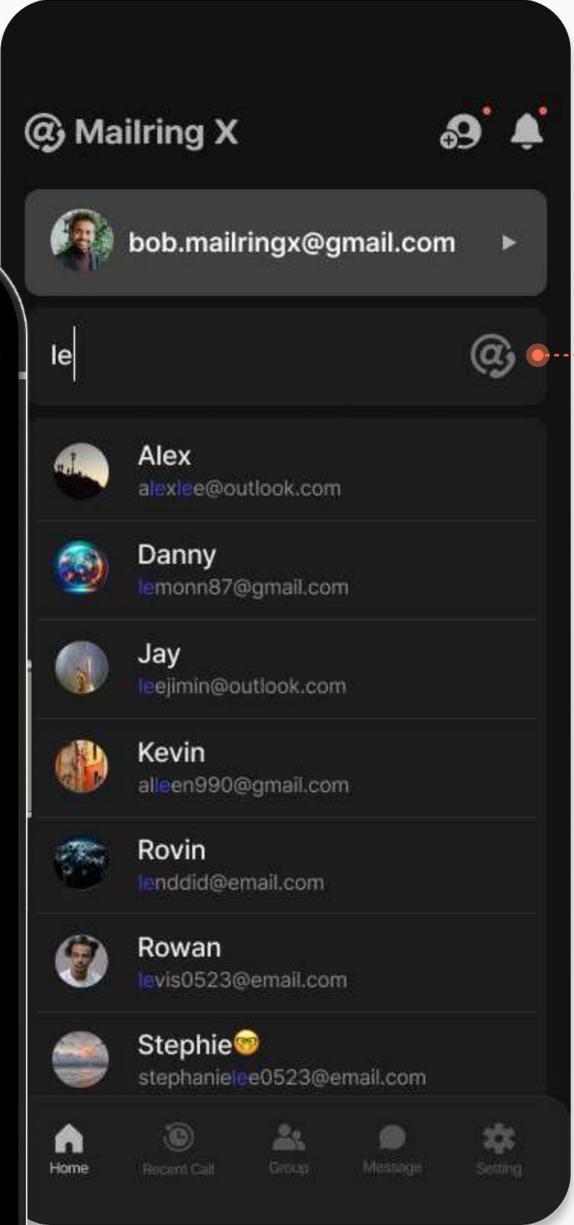

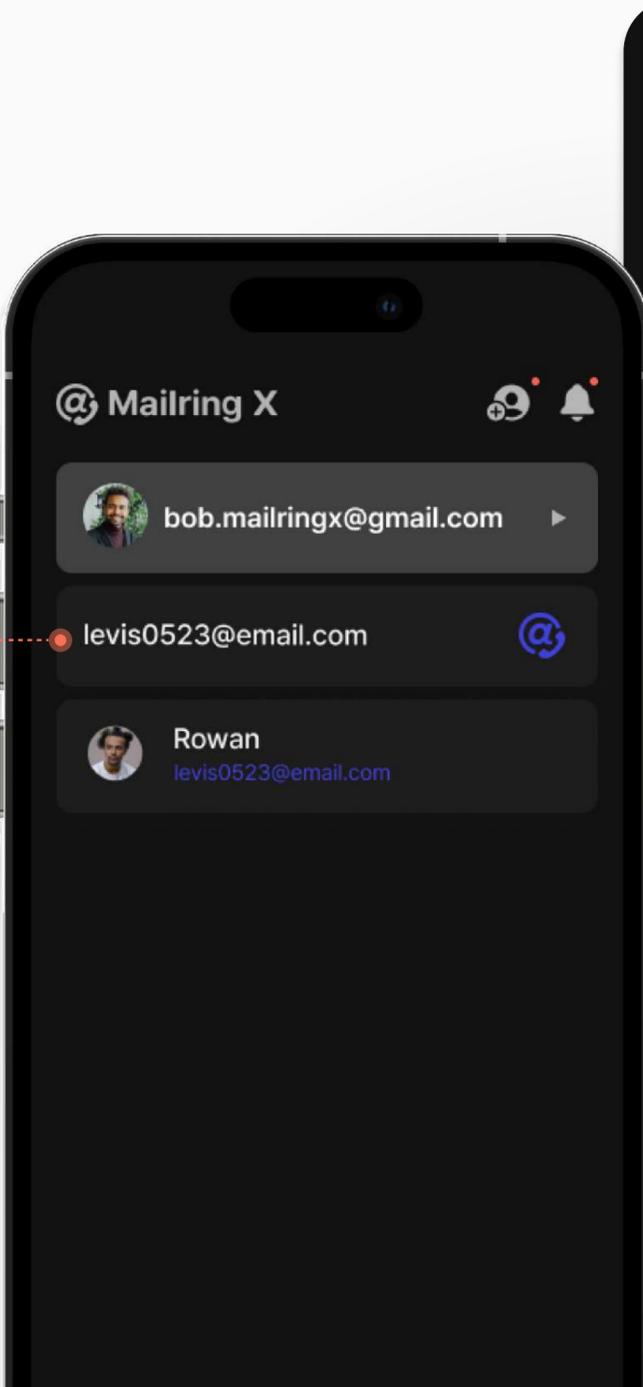

Home

Search + Mailring Call

If logged into your Mailring X account, incoming calls are received on both the web browser and app simultaneously. With multiple sessions, you can answer calls from other accounts hassle-free.

Mailring Call Outgoing
Activate Mailring Call's outgoing call button when a valid email address is entered.

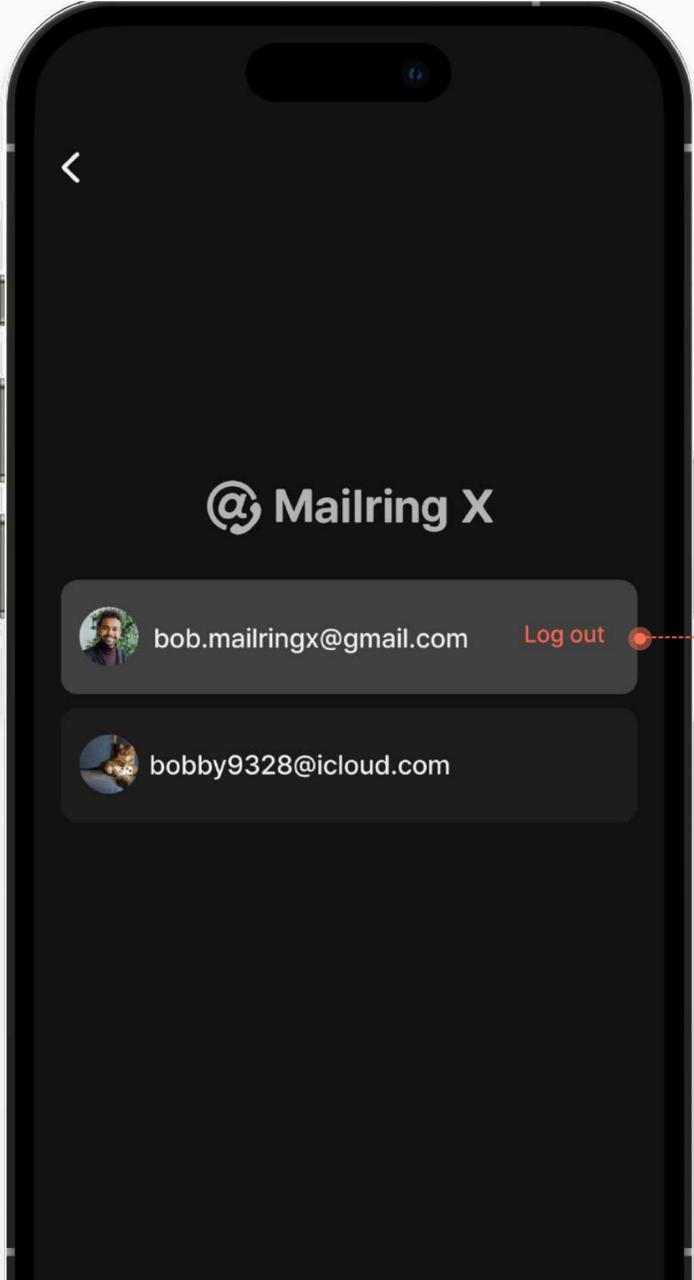

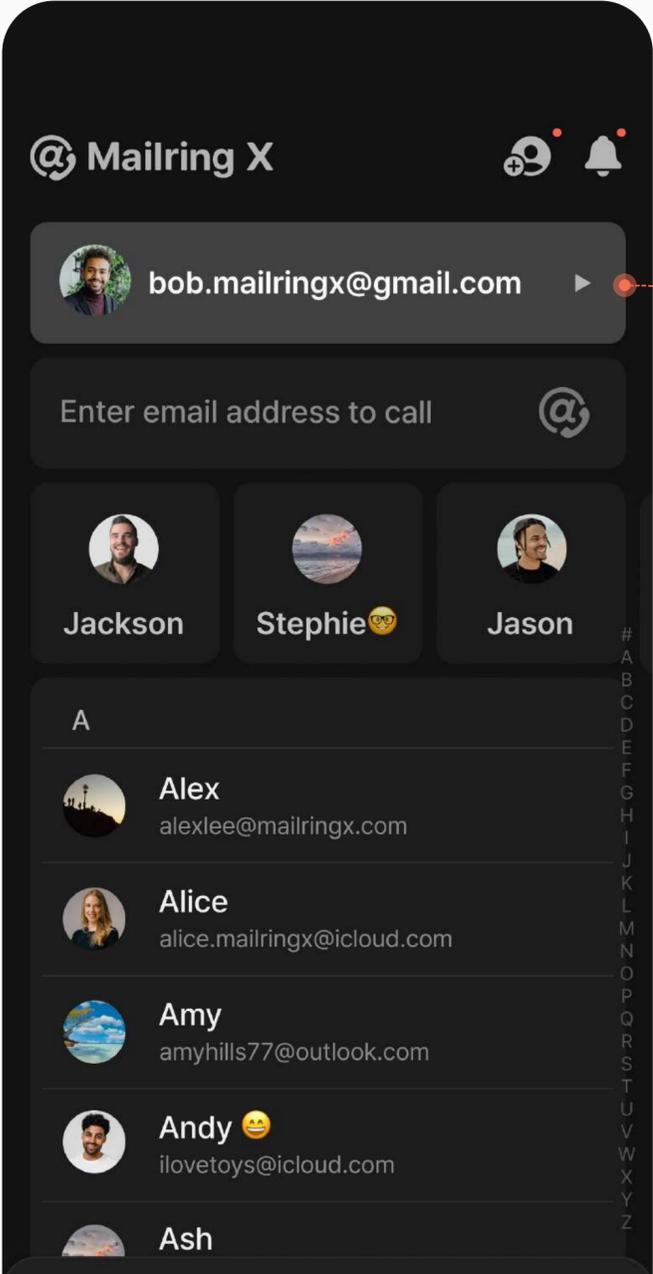

Contact Search
When searching for an email registered in contacts, filter and display the corresponding contact.

Home

Multi-Session

Register multiple email addresses as accounts to use them flexibly depending on your needs. You can register up to two sessions.

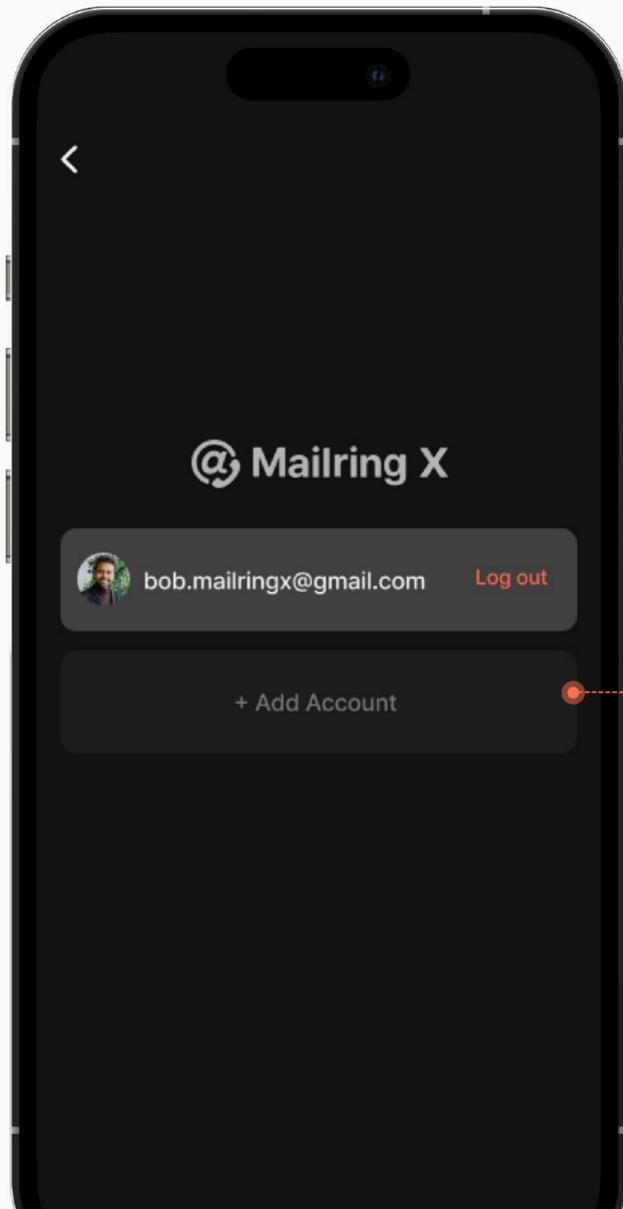

Session Logout

When you log out of the currently selected session, it will be removed from the registered session list. You can later log in again through 'Add Account' to re-register it in the list.

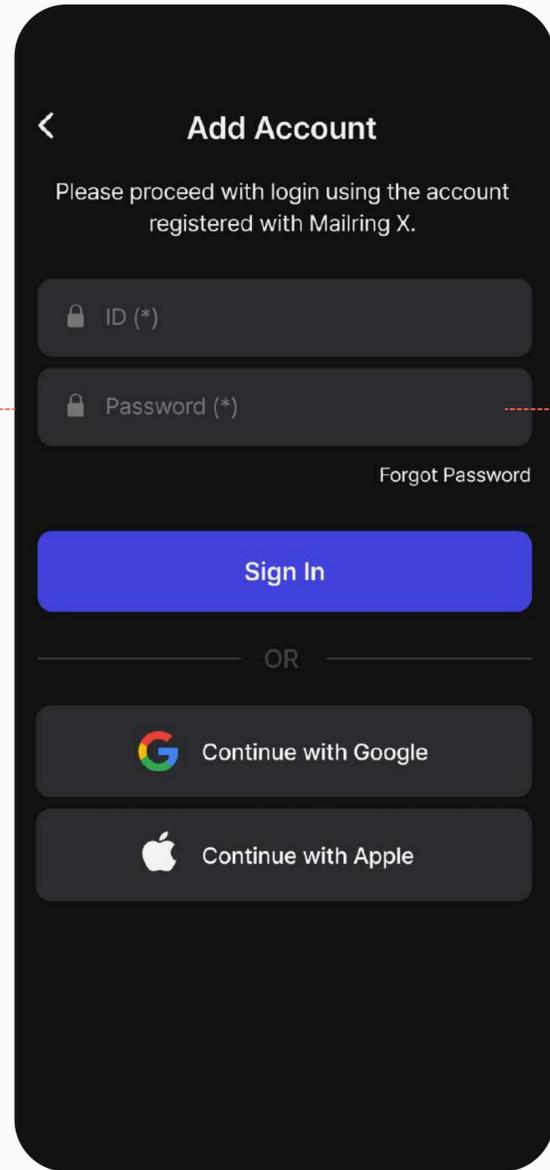

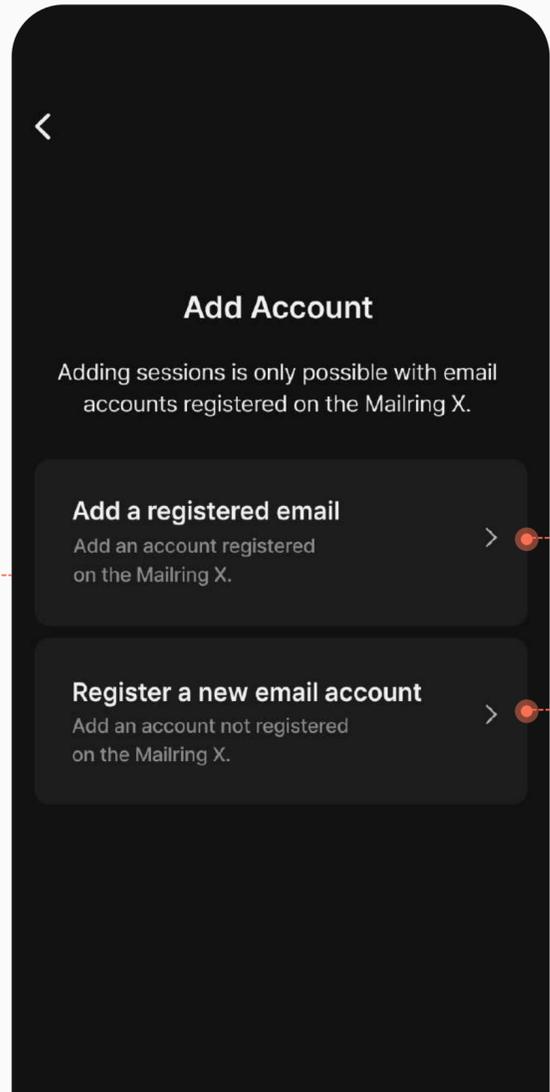

Home

Add Session

Sessions can only be registered with email accounts subscribed to Mailring X. Therefore, choose between adding an already registered Mailring X account or signing up for a new one, then proceed with the following steps.

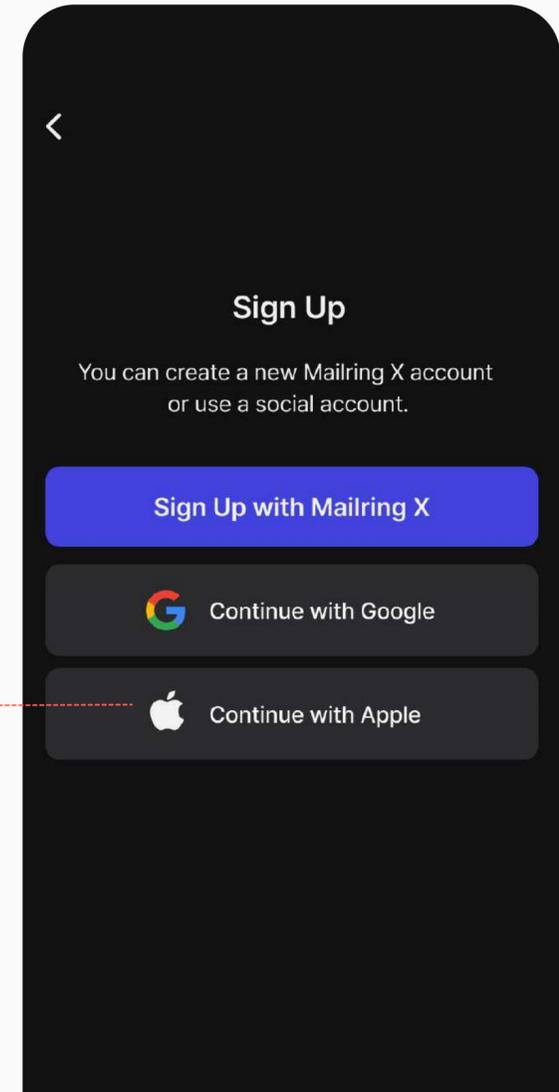

Select Account to Register

Register Existing Account
Add a session by logging in with an email account that is already registered on Mailring X.

Register New Account
Add a session by signing up with an email account that is not yet registered on Mailring X.

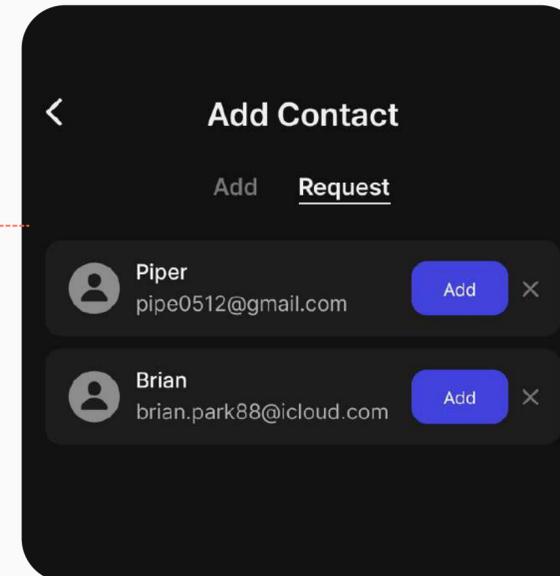

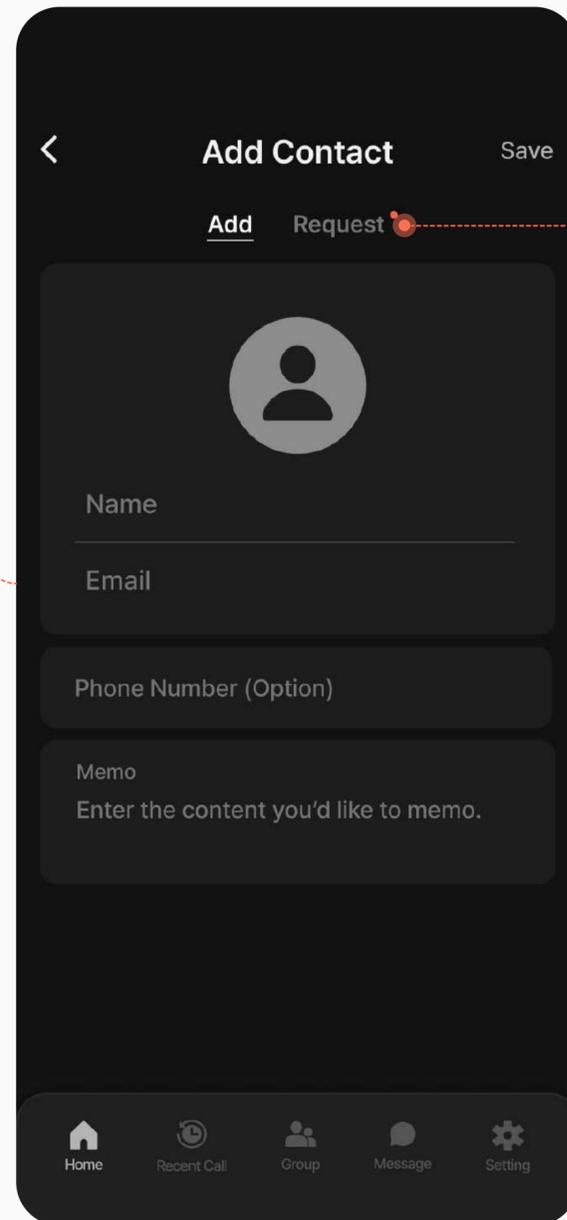

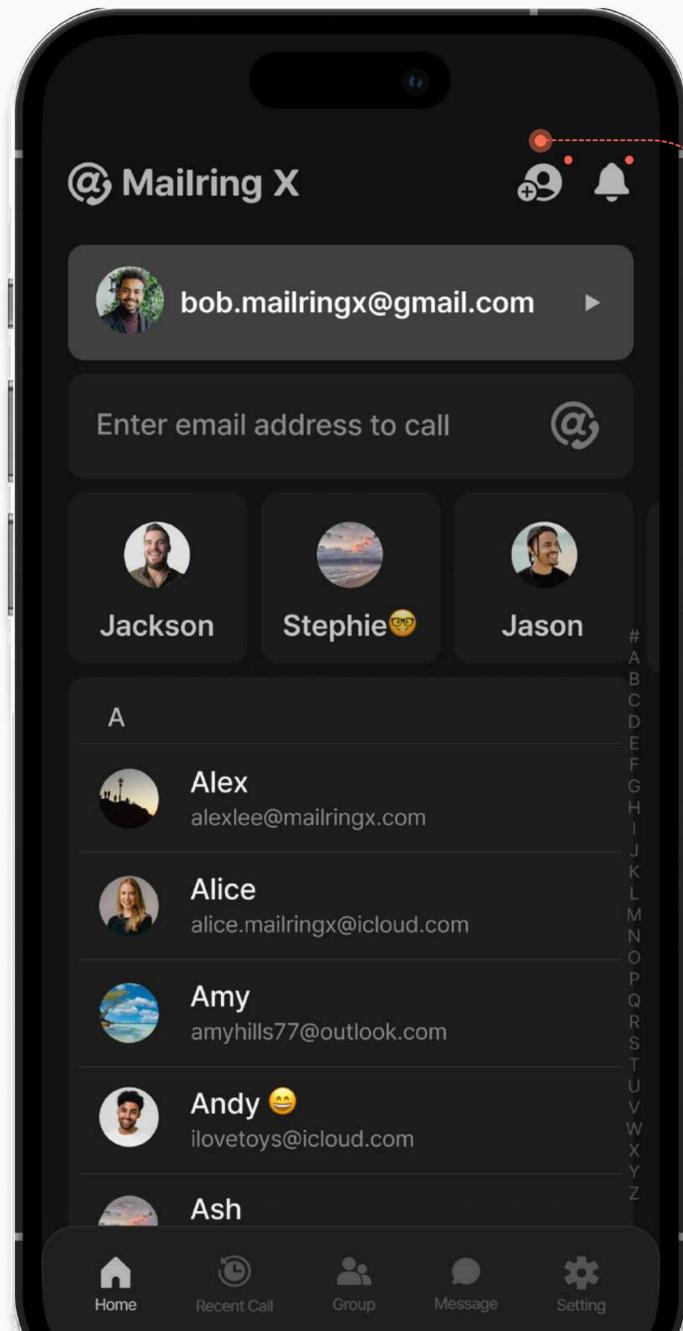

Home

Add Contact + Registration Request

For integrated and consistent usability, Mailring X supports both Mailring Call outgoing calls and regular phone calls.

Mailring Call

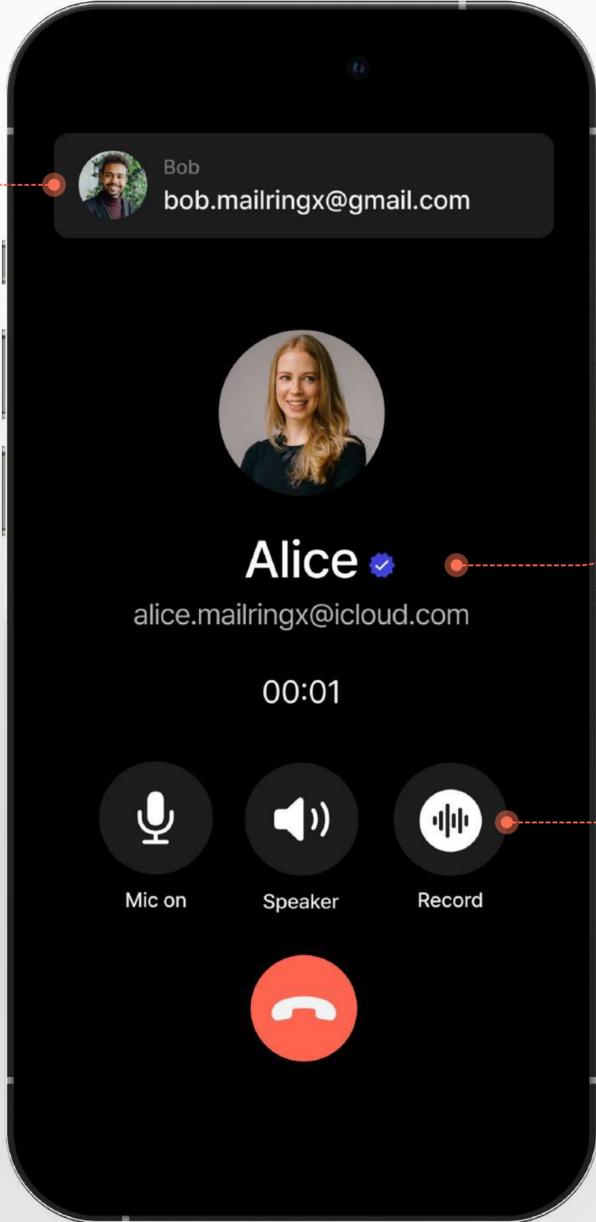

Mailring Call feature

Mailring Call

Call screen

The Mailring Call call screen is designed to be familiar to users, resembling a typical phone call screen. Additionally, it incorporates features unique to Mailring X such as indicating the outgoing session with various accounts and providing call recording functionality.

Active Session in Call
My account displayed to the other party (Shown as the group's primary email when sending from the primary email).

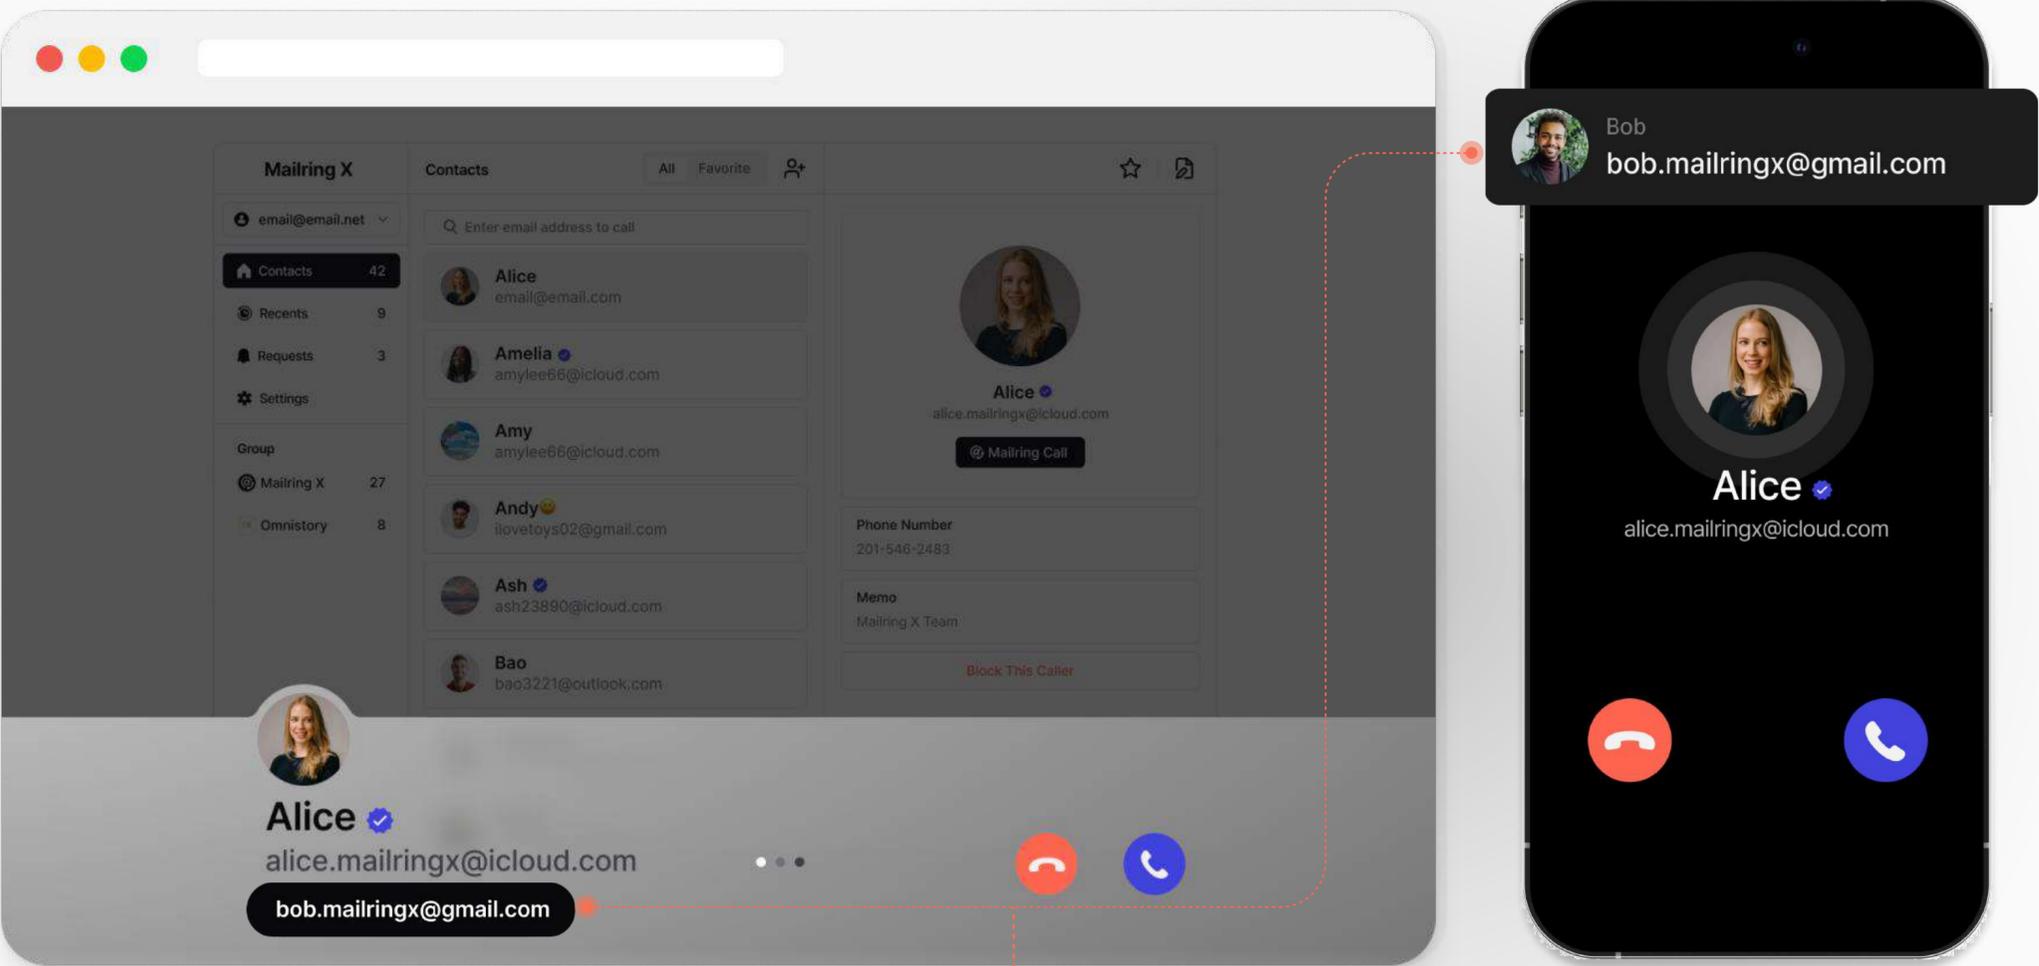

Membership Verification Mark
Indicate Membership Subscription

Call Recording
Exclusive to membership subscribers, recording available for one call per call.

Mailring Call

Dual Reception

If your Mailring X account is logged in, incoming calls will be received simultaneously on both the web browser and the application. If you have registered multiple sessions, you can receive calls from other accounts besides the currently selected one without any issues.

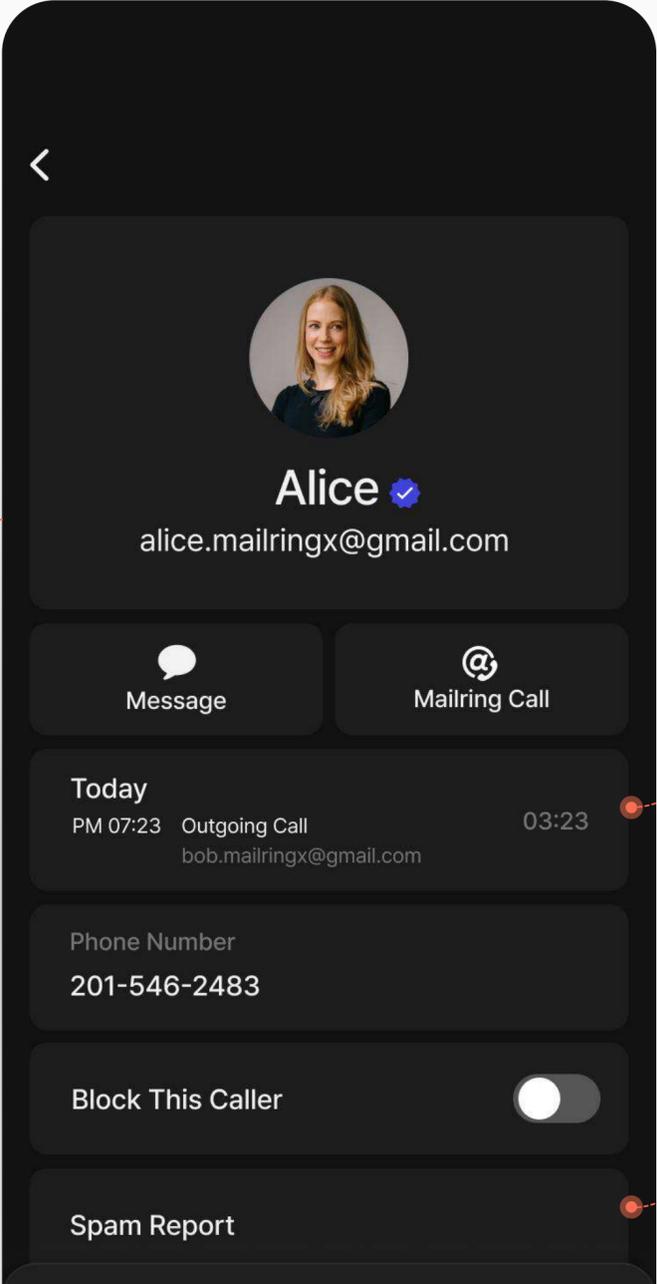

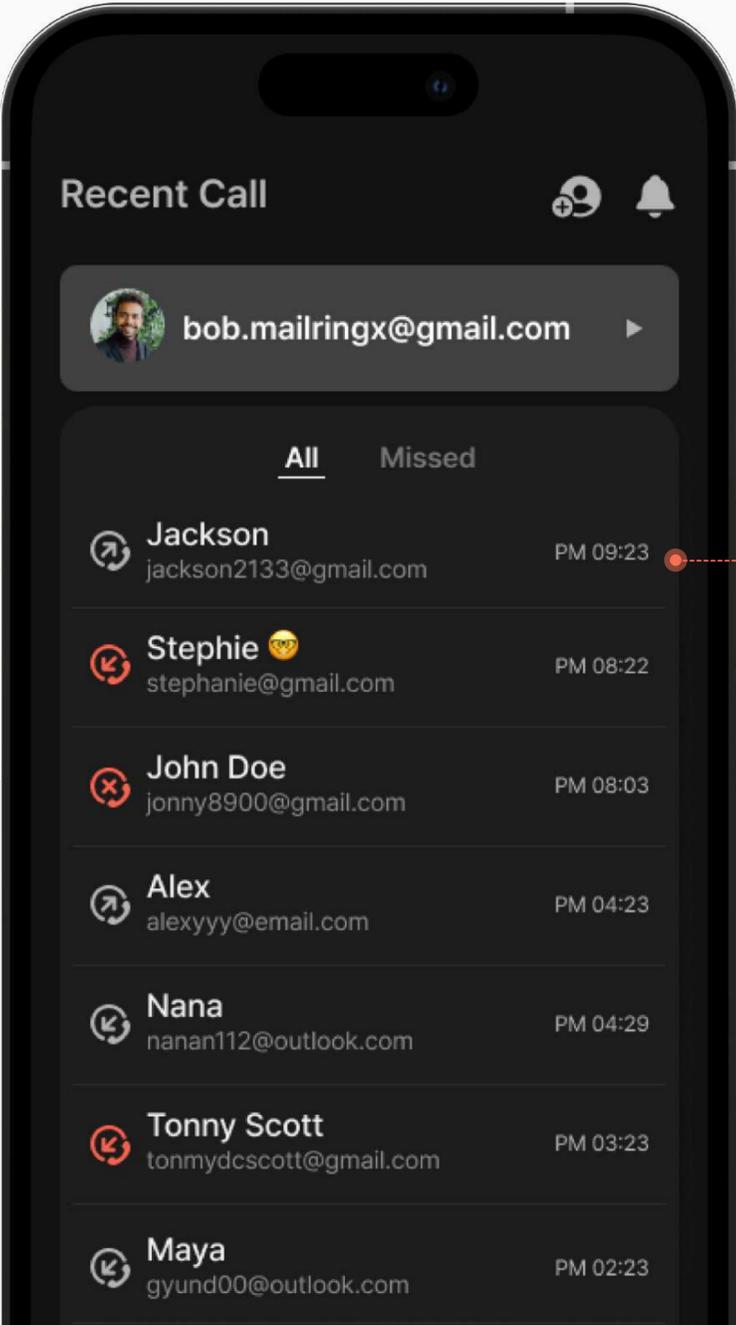

Active Session in Call

Mailring Call

Recent Call

The list of calls made and received through Mailring Call is saved.

Four icons represent outgoing, incoming, missed, and rejected calls, and in the detailed view of the list, you can block contacts and report them as spam.

Indication of Outgoing Account
To minimize confusion when sending from the primary email, display the email address shown to the recipient.

Report Spam
You can report spam for unwanted advertisements/promotions or any other content that causes discomfort to the recipient.

Group

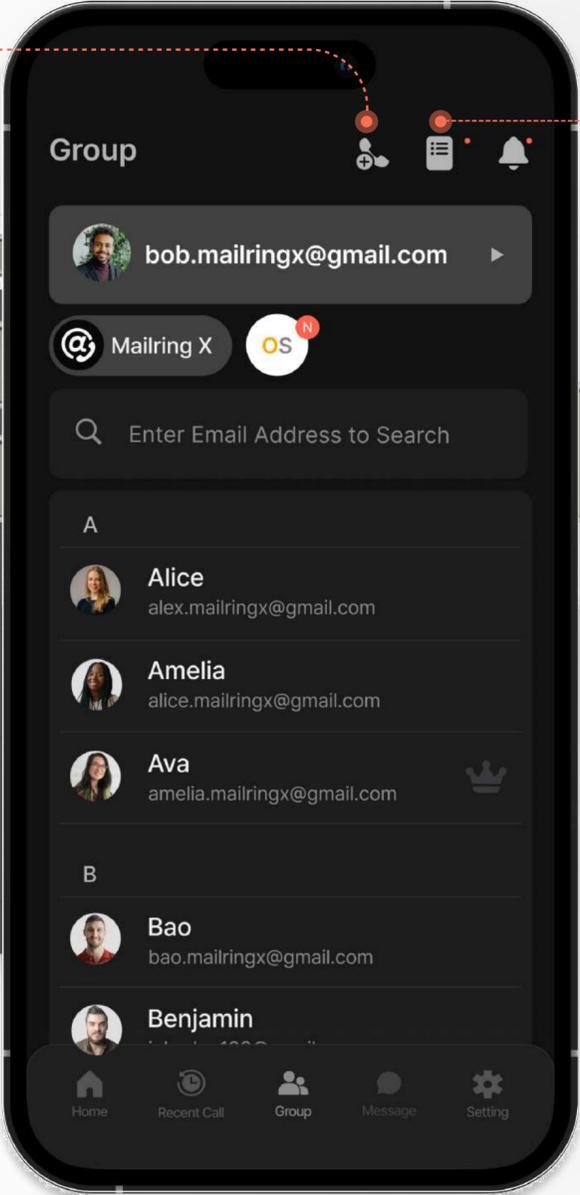

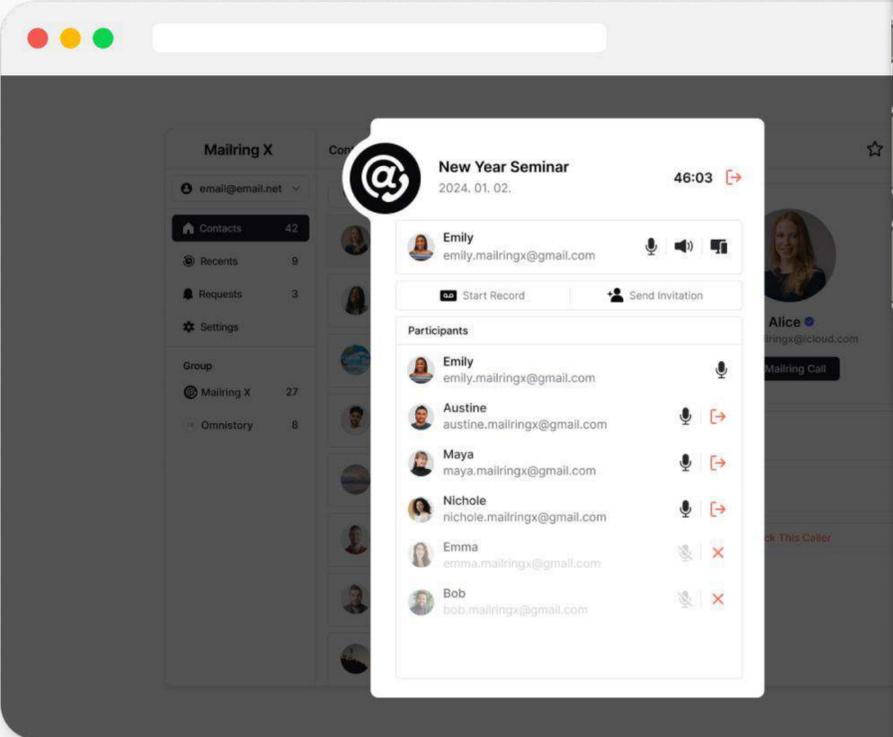

Multiple groups, group calls, and primary email

Group

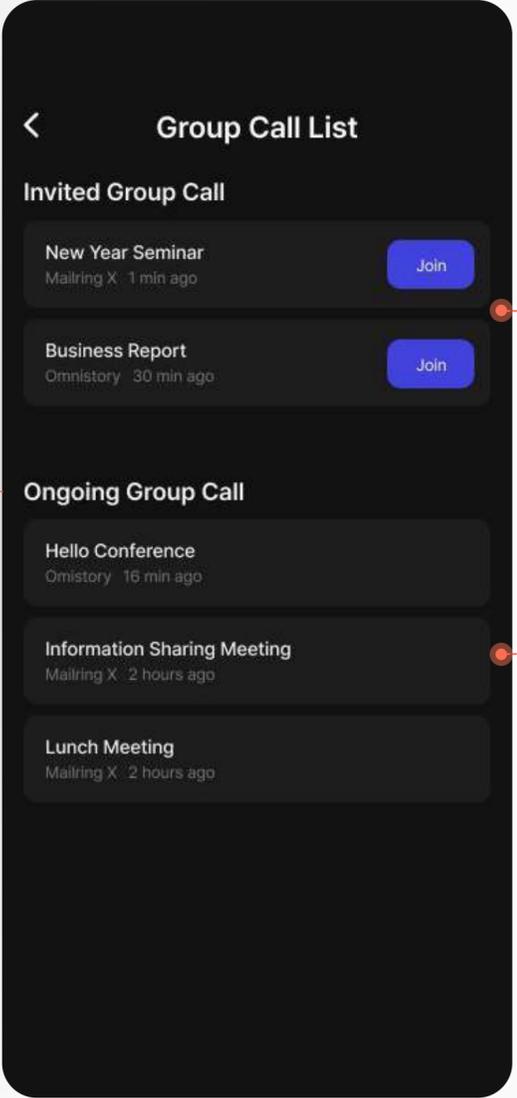

Multi-Group

Members invited by the group owner can use group features.
Each email account can join a maximum of three groups.

Create Group Call
Any member of the group can create a group call.

Group Call List

Invited Group Call
A list of group call invitations received, where you can join the group call room by selecting 'Join'.

Outgoing Group Call
A list of ongoing group calls in groups, regardless of the user's invitation status.

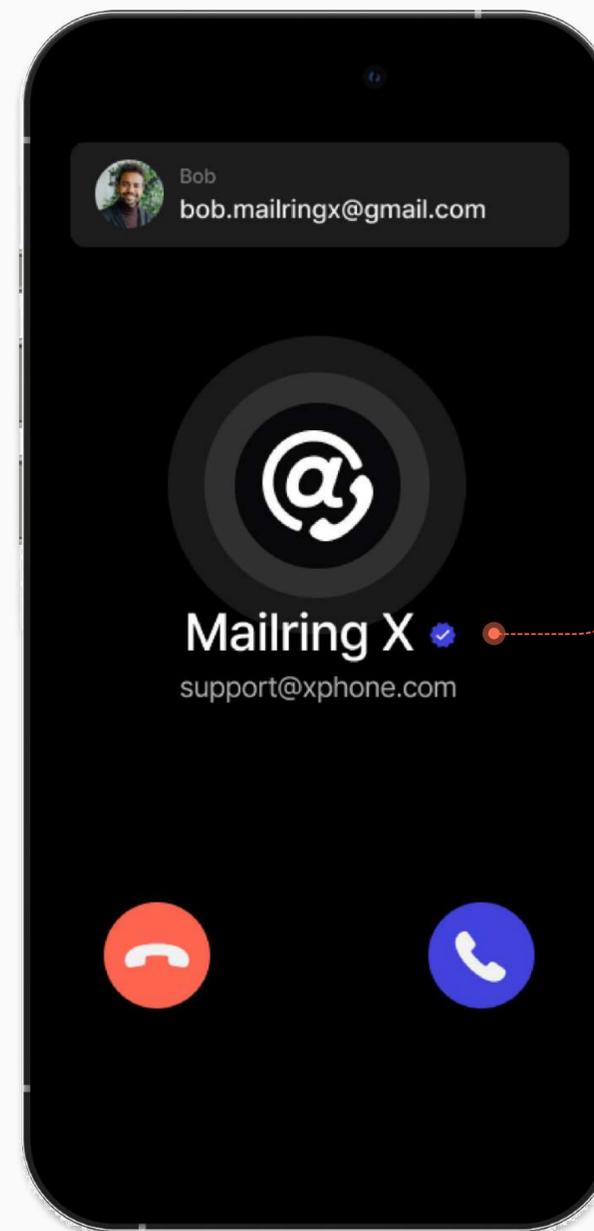

Group

Receiving on Primary Email

After creating a group, you can register the group's primary email.

When sending from the primary email, the recipient sees the group's profile instead of the individual account's profile.

This can be useful for operating groups for official/business purposes.

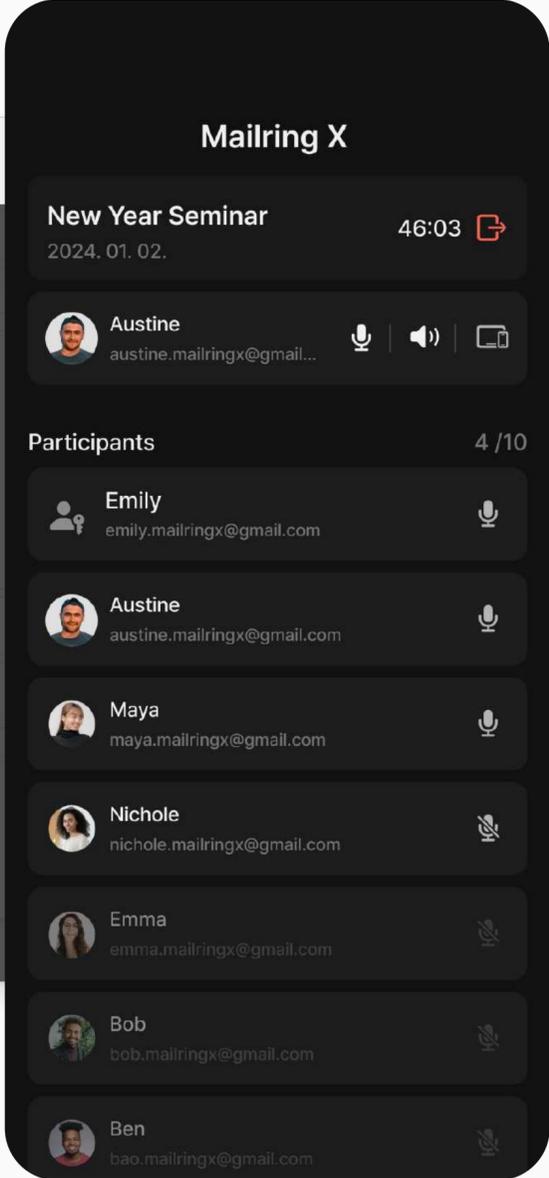

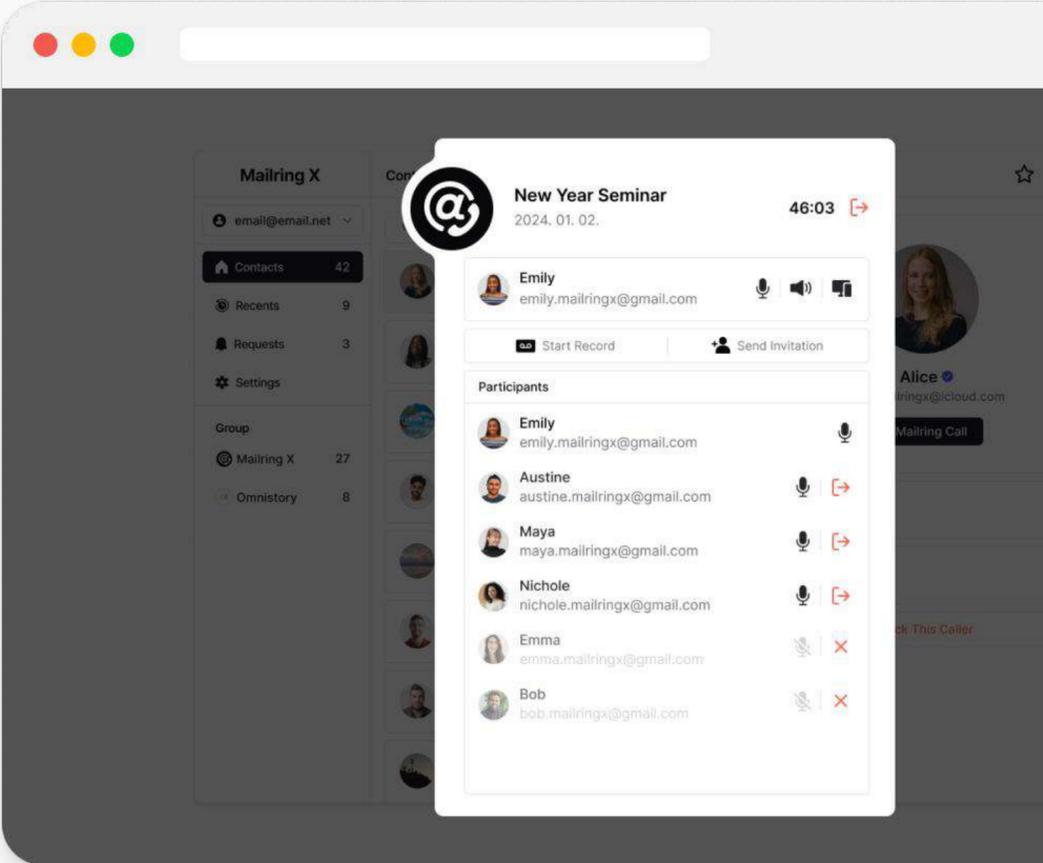

Receiving on Primary Email
Instead of the personal profile of the person being called, the name of the group and the primary email are displayed.

Group

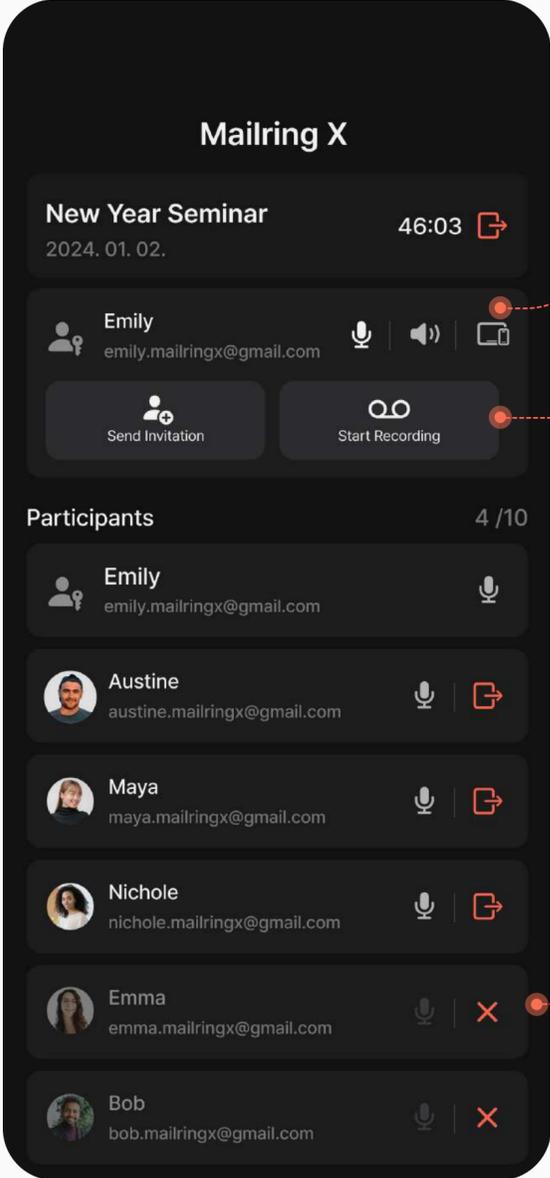

Group Call

Up to 10 members belonging to the same group can have a voice call simultaneously.

When recording a group call, the recorded content can be transcribed into text using AI Recording Reports technology and shared via email.

Participant Screen

Host Screen

Change Input/Output Device
When multiple devices are connected to the device, change the device to be used for microphone and speaker (such as Bluetooth devices).

Group Call Recording (AI Reports)
After recording a group call, AI will transcribe the content and send it as a PDF file to the emails of all participating members.

Cancel Group Call Invitation
It's possible to cancel invitations for members who haven't joined the group call.
